

I think ur being irrational >

This one guy I went out with for like literally just a month had a framed photo of Kendall Jenner in his living room. Her face wasn't in it though, it was her in a bikini reading a book it was just her midriff and a piece of her hair and I was like? Do you have a framed photo of Kendall Jenners midriff in your living room? And he was like yea my roommate put it up and I was like oh? Implying that's super lame but then he was like, lol how could you tell it was her. Am I the lame one now for identifying Kendall jenners midriff? I have an uncle family friend type guy who has a bunch of framed photos of Marilyn Monroe in his house. I think this makes him a pervert. I also think he's a pervert because he makes a point of shaking my hand and when he does he squeezes it so hard I can feel the micro fractures forming. Like I get it you're strong and you have big pervert hands leave Marilyn alone for gods sake.

I think men having art of women, especially naked women, will always gross me out. I particularly hate the classic americana tattoos of girls in the 50s bikinis. My art teacher in highschool made tatoos like that. Like why are you as a grown ass man tattooing a naked woman on to your body ew the fucking epitome of objectification. Art teacher called me intimidating and I was like what do you mean and he was like you are physically and intellectually intimidating. What I really was was 16. What he really was was short and also a pervert. No it's wrong to blanket statement call people perverts what a horrible baseless claim it's terrible to call people perverts it's terrible. But they are all perverts and not all of my takes are nuanced.

One time at my godmothers birthday party, her son was introducing us all to his new girlfriend. And my dad was really drunk which he very rarely is and I caught a glimpse of him elbowing the godmothers son like, heyyyyyy kid niceeeee job, gesturing to the girlfriend in that gross wink wink way of like wow you caught yourself a looker. I didn't think my dad was the kind of person to wink wink you caught yourself a looker.

While we're at it? I think your dad is a pervert too. And I hate him.

Having sex with men is disgusting. I love it.

I hate that Kendall Jenner and I are both naked in your stupid living room. I am still angry about it. When I'm seeing someone I always send a photo of that person to my friends. I think it should be illegal for men to do the same. I don't think you know how to handle yourself. I don't think you know how to conduct yourself. I don't trust you to share a photo of me like a normal person I think your roommate might frame it and we're all going to forgive him because he's going through a lot right now, there's the cocaine addiction, there's the ex girlfriend. The type of sex we're having? I'm playing pretend. I don't think you're playing pretend

I think you actually hate me.

I love my naked body I want to put it on the internet. I love looking down in the shower.

I love having so much body to soap. My sister once took a video of herself taking a bath in our grandmothers weird green tiled bathtub and she showed it to me and I was like this is the most absurd beautiful moving thing I've seen. But you cannot be trusted with the bathtub film you can't even be trusted with a normal photo of me with my mouth closed. A man sent a photo of me, like a regular fully clothed photo of me, to his ex. His intentions are still not clear to me but they were for sure evil. This is not a crime. A lot of the things that have been done to me are not crimes. Wink wink caught yourself a looker is not a crime. And like my father is a good man I think. He always offers to drive me back to the city.

wtf man hating psycho

