Yea so I'm abandoning the cool girl myth. I've been prefacing that I'm at my core just very sweet and normal. I'm not interested in being interesting, I'm fascinating but I'm fascinating when my head is resting against the window in the car, when I'm wide stanced on the subway, you know like, I'm a human being and like, I'm very sleepy when it comes to seducing anyone. I already put on mascara what more can you want, but speaking of more I even didn't wear mascara that one day so you could really know me, I think that's really sweet and normal and that's what I'd like you to fall in love with.
